TROUBLE, DRINK AND SUICIDE .- A most ead and melancholy event occurred in this city last night. Mr. Theodore Dilger, a jeweller and watchmaker by trade, and doing business for himself on Kick street, terminated his mortal life by swallowing a dose of execuret of potas sium, one of the most fatal poisons known to the medical profession. The rash act is supposed to have been the result of strong drink, insorted to to draws sorrow caused by family ill clion. One day last week Mr. Dilger's sis ter, a Mrs. Voxel, accompanied by her hushand and two small children, arrived in New York from Germany. Shortly after their arrival in this country one of their children died. They then started for this city, and upon reaching Washington, dicevered that their baggage had been left in Baltimore. Mrs. Vogel came to this city and put up, with her child, at the resideace of her brother, Mr. Ddger. The bustand returned to Baltimore, and after securing his baggage, had it checked for Washington and started to walk tack but died from sunstroke and Friday. when but a short distance from the former city. the body of the stranger was shortly afterwards found on the road and taken back to the city of Estimore and buried, the wife still unconscious of the sad fate of her husband. Mr. Dilger, learning of the death of his brother in law, yesterday started to Washington for the purpose of taking some steps to recover the efficient of the decased. He returned to this city last night, and, indulging farther in strong drick, went to his home, about hall past tine o'clock. After sitting for a short while at his front door, he esteral his stop, and, in the presence of his family, picked up a jump of the poison, which he used in his business, and which was in its crystal and state, and with the remark that he intended to kill himself, commenced himse proces of it off. His little sou ran to him and succeeded in taking the dangerous poison away from his father, not, however, notil he had swallowed a sufficient quantity to course death. The infortunate man soon after fell prostrate to the floor, and was removed to a sel's, where be died before a physician could reach him. Dr. R. C. Powell arrived about quarter to eleven o'clock, and upon examining the man, who up to that time had been supposed to be in an unconscious condition, state I than death had ensued half on hour before his arrival. The corrowing family (wife and s x children) then eave yent to their grief in heartrending screams. Mr. Dilger, who was a Germon by birth, was a cognized as a first class watchmaker and jaweler, and had many sood trains. Although addieted to spreeing, up to yesterday he had not drank anything for a long time. He arrived in New York from Distric, Nessa, Germany, in 1500, and three ye real twards came to this city, where he resided up to the time of his

The national democratic com nittee, on reach ing Mr. Tilden's residence, were received by Henry Tilden, the ex Governor's brother, Senator Kergan, Augustus Schell and others. When Mr. Til len appeared, cx Gov. Stevens n addressed him. He said : The convention assembled at Ciceianati nominated for President and Vice President Gen. Winfield Scott Haneack and Hon. Wm. H. English. The commutee charged with the duty of informing those eminent statesmen of the high trust which has been tendered to them, and which they have with serious results accepted, would have but half performed their duty if they did not come to pay homage to him who, by a large majority, was elected four down all your claims to the exilted office of President of the United States, because you did not desire civil war, does not take in any just claims which you had on the people of the country for a second term. For those acts of self denial and patriotism the democrae; of the United States pray to the Almighty power that your life may be prolonged for many very many years, and more particularly that you may live to see the country and its constitution al government relieved from many incumbrances heaped upon them as well as the rectifi cation of one of the basest frauds perpetrated upon the peop'e by the overwhelming defeat

The speaker here read the resolution in referopen to Mr. Tilden passed by the Cincinnati convention. Mr. Stevenson then concluded: This docu

In reply Mr. Tilden speke as follows: Mr. Stevenson, president of the democratic national convention, I thank you for the kind terms in which you have expressed the communication you make to me. A resolution which enables the democratic party of the United States to vindica'e afficively the right of the people to choose their chi.t magistrate, a right vio-Jated in 1876, and at the same time relieves me from the burden of the canvass and four years of administration is most agreeable to me. Gen. Pridemore's Position.

JONESVILLE, July 5, 1850 My Dear Sir-Your letter of June 29 h reached me in due time, and I has en to renty. The report that I had decided the position of democra is elector for this district for any other reason than severe family : fil erion is untime. And white entertaining views in sympatly with the party known as the resciusters. ur on the settlement of the public debt, I do not believe it wise or prudent to put a firebratd in the ratks of the dem cra is party by new place ing in the fie'd another the oral ticker. even pledged to the Cincinnati nonlince. But all men desiring the success of that ticket should stand by it as now in the fill, although he might have preferred a different one.

I have never said anything differing from this, or in imating that I was displeased with my appointment. I thought the readjusters ought to have called a convention to time to send delegates to the Cincipnati convention, and test there, if to be tested at all, the quistion as to which faction or party had the preferetes on the national ticket from Virginia. But failing in that, and cilling the convention to assembly after all the national conventions, I regarded as a waiver of our claims as a party in the national contest; and as we did not aid in the nomination, we were estopped in the appointment of an electoral ticket for candidates we refused in due time to selec. The nominations being made without our aid, and being neceptable to all sides, I think, with all due respect, it wen'd be unbecoming in us, as readjusters, to create dissensions and confusions fraught, it may be

And this alone made me slow to respond to, and now way from your noble and straight forward inclines me to decline the unselicited honor ten character. There is still another act dered me. I would be still more reluciant to do of patrione self desial on record in this, but am sure my place can be easily supplied. If the coming July convention will give its hearty support to the national cause as now organized, which it can, in my judgment, without any sacrifice of principles, I believe it will receive the confidence of the people on State issues. Upon the contrary, if the readinaters provoke a disagreement that results disastrously to the national ticket they will, I fear ferfeit the confidence of the people and injure the cause they so much desire to promote. I trust both sides may act conservative in this matter, and labor to unite us for the coming contest.

I would have written you sooner, but have been hopeful that our family affliction would in due time be healed and an explanation rendered upnecessity.

I do not regard it at all important which par ty casts the electoral vote so it is east for the democratic nominees. For if the people of this country by any means condones the fraud of four years ago, and through dissensions or negleet sanctifies the delogs of the republican party in that fraud, then every thinking man will stand appalled at the eminent peril of popular government. So long, therefore, as the men or party, which aided in the nemination of what seems to be a wise choice and an acceptable man to Virginia and the South, has a ticket | Sold by in the field, I shall stand by it. And it will take a more foreible argument than denunciation and misrepresentation to convince me I cannot do this and be as much of a readjuster as the man who sees proper to think other-Yours tra'y.
